

Breaking news: Italian authorities urged to seize £500m superyacht as Putin's critics say he is the real owner – Daily Mail

Allies of Alexei Navalny have told Italian authorities they should seize a 460ft vessel moored off the country's coast because they can prove it belongs to the Russian leader. A probe by the Russian opposition leader's anti-corruption unit examined a host of luxury assets in Europe which they claim are the property of Putin and his family. Chief among the alleged assets is the $700million superyacht, measuring 140-metres in length, complete with luxury features including two helipads. The six-deck yacht 'Scheherezade' contains space that is the equivalent of two apartment blocks, along with a spa and beauty salon. It is currently moored in the port of Marina di Carrara off the west coast of Italy. The sensational material shared on Navalny's YouTube channel by presenters Georgy Albuov and Maria Pevchikh
