

Fixing chronic problems with flying training was RAF chief's 'only priority' and could take years to resolve

Ben Wallace, the defence secretary, instructed the head of the Royal Air Force to fix chronic problems with flying training for new pilots as "his only priority", a defence source has said..

Read More