

Missing divers surfaced before drifting away, survivor says – as search enters third day

A British man and his teenage son, who went missing while diving in Malaysia, surfaced before drifting away, the only known survivor of the group has said as the search for them enters the third day...

Read More