

North Sea oil and gas firms face govt pressure to invest profits into home-grown energy to 'bring down bills'

North Sea oil and gas companies have come under pressure from the government to invest their profits into accelerating domestic energy production as millions of Britons continue to face soaring energy prices...

Read More