

Sweden's green innovation is a 'good selling point' to join NATO, country's energy minister says

Sweden's energy independence and green innovation should be a "good selling point" as it seeks to join the NATO security alliance, the country's energy minister has told Sky News...

Read More